About Apila

Apila Ediciones is a publishing house founded in 2007, specializing in illustrated children's picture books and firmly committed to graphic and literary quality.

In our catalog, you will find renowned authors and illustrators, but we also love giving opportunities to emerging talents. That's why, in 2013, we created the Apila Primera Impresión Award, a competition designed to offer illustrators with no published works the chance to publish their first professional picture book. Since then, the Apila Awards have helped most of their winners successfully transition into the professional world of illustration.

We love beautiful illustrations and precise words.

We create stories that bring smiles, some that make you laugh out loud, others that make you think, and some that help you learn... but each and every one of them is:

- A story we would choose for our own children.
- A story we wish we had when we were little.
- A story to enjoy.

In life, you have to overcome different obstacles to get to where you want. Or maybe not...

An album for pre-readers and young readers. With very little text and a lot of humour, it tells the adventures of a rabbit who goes in search of the best parsnip and narrates the difficulties he encounters along the way and how he manages to overcome them thanks to other characters. The story is simple and behind it there is talk of the effort it takes to achieve things, often with the help of others.

Hi, I'm the Witch.
I am very happy because I have an appointment.
I look very pretty, but not everyone thinks the same.
Do not stop giving me advice and I do not know what to do.
They will reason?
Is it possible to please others and feel good at the same time?

Felix had lost his treasured scarf in the park.

It was long and red.

Where can it be?

Who has taken it?

The red scarf is a picture book created to help to understand that change doesn't mean loss.

And that anything that has been made out of love will always remain with us. Even though our nearest and dearest may sometimes have to move away, they will eventually return.

The Red Scarf has been the winner of 2020 Fundación Cuatrogatos Award.
